Author's visit

Editorial

Congratulations to our representatives in the public speaking competition and the Barrier athletics last week.

Dr Cameron Stelzer the author of children's books 'The Stroogle' series & 'How to draw Dragons', will be holding a workshop day here at Railway Town for all students K-6. This visit has been paid for out of our Literacy budget and so is free of charge for our students. It should be a great experience for our students.

This week the final Maths Matters staff professional development sessions are being held which sees the 12 month training commitment of staff coming to an end. The skills and strategies learned have been implemented currently and are to be sustained and carried on in future K-6 class Maths Programs.

On Thursday this week there will be no Active after Schools because of the Stop Work Meeting.

A reminder for our K-2 students to bring their permission notes back as the vision tests will be held next week.

Have a great week.

Sporting News

Broken Hill Athletics Carnival

We had a few successes at the carnival on Friday. Billie-Jo Forner ran 2nd in the 800m & 200m. Alex Gray 2nd in shot put. Troy Bright 2nd in 100m. Everybody performed at their best on the day. Mrs McInerney was very proud of the behaviour of all the students on the day.

Wednesday Night Netball

Both teams played well on Wednesday night but unfortunately neither had a win. The Jets got a lesson in how to play netball, thanks Britney McInnes. Gage Daddow did find her water bottle so everyone at netball can now relax.

Canteen News

Thank you to Denielle Ziliotto for the time she has spent as Canteen Supervisor. Denielle is retiring to await the arrival of the stork. She has done a great job and it is wonderful to see an increase in new volunteers. Maintaining a healthy operating canteen is a huge job and Denielle has managed to do both. Applications have been sent home for the position of Canteen Manager, so if you believe you can do the job please apply.
