What's On?

Tues 17th July – Student's first day of Term 3

Thurs 19th July – NAIDOC Celebrations

Editorial

Welcome back everyone, term 3 has commenced and already we are organising numerous activities that are approaching soon in this busy term.

Yesterday morning our staff participated in combined professional development activities at Broken Hill High on Aboriginal cultural awareness. Our staff then returned to RTPS and completed their Anaphylaxis safety training and also ongoing Team Leadership for School Improvement course modules. Our stage one teachers will be commencing some professional development in the National Partnership funded Teaching Early Numeracy or TEN program. This will be a valuable training to maintain current skills and improve the way numeracy is taught.

Thursday this week we are holding NAIDOC week activities, children can wear mufti with any red black & yellow colours if they wish.

Monday next week our volunteer Multi-lit trainees will be completing their course in order to assist the continued operation of the Multi-lit program with our students.

I will be away next week accompanying the stage 3 students on their Canberra excursion. Considerable organisation and fund raising by numerous staff and parents have all helped to give our students the opportunity to go on this excursion.

Education week is the 30th July - 3rd August. We will be participating in the annual Choral festival on the Monday 30th

We now have a fantastic new multimedia screen in our hall that was fitted during the break. We also have a school wireless internet network access across the school to assist in teaching and learning activities. This will particularly help with our 3 new Ipads being utilised in classes. This was all made a reality by utilising Muffin Break competition money, Easter raffle and some school funds.

Have a great week
