Editorial

Last week was a very successful week for Railway Town Public School. It commenced with open classrooms and BBQ lunch, followed by the Choral Festival on Wednesday. The week was rounded off with students representing the school in both track and field events. Although I was absent for the entire week, I am very pleased to say that the school was left in the very capable hands of Miss Church and the ever reliable staff of Railway Town Public School.

This week Brett Murray will be conducting 2 workshops on anti-bullying. Brett is Australia's #1 Anti-Bullying authority and youth speaker. He has been nominated 4 times for Australian of the Year and is a highly skilled and sought after professional. On Tuesday evening all parents are invited to attend a workshop being held at Broken Hill North Public School at 7:00pm. Brett will then present a 2 hour session to our students in years 4 to 6 on Wednesday morning. There is no cost involved for parents and students as both schools are covering the fees for Brett's visit. I strongly urge all parents to consider attending Brett Murray's entertaining and informative anti-bullying workshop.

Have a great week...
